

The Benefit of Private Cremation

Easing your clients' doubts with our state-of-the-art crematory

Many cremation providers offer their clients “individual cremation,” sometimes using terms such as “individual segregation,” “individual partitioned” or “separate cremation.” These do not necessarily mean that pets are cremated in a private chamber. The current industry-standard term “individual cremation” has often been misinterpreted. Pet Meadow is working with the IAOPCC and CANA to make it clear that individual cremation means that pets are placed in a cremation chamber separated only by trays, bricks or other barriers, and that the remains may become commingled before they are returned to the pet owner.

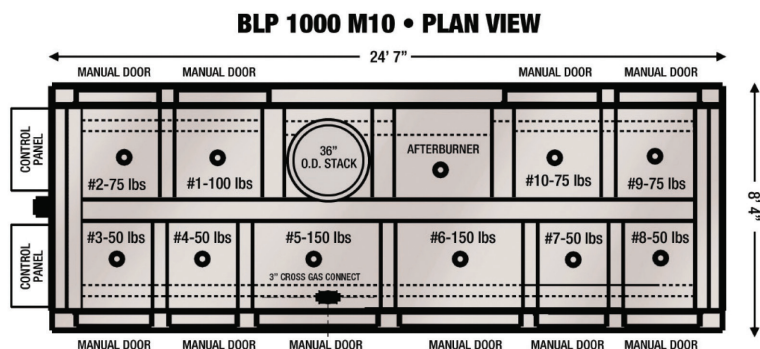

Many hospitals have voiced their clients' concerns over these confusing terms. The M10 Animal Crematory is a state-of-the-art design allowing for 10 private cremations at a time, without commingling any remains. This fuel-efficient pet crematory utilizes a tried and true hot hearth technology. Our CANA certified crematory operators can individually control each chamber.

In private cremation only one pet is placed into a chamber. This method ensures that your clients receive only their pet's ashes. We invite you to tour our facilities to see for yourself.

The aftercare of clients' loved ones is of paramount importance and should not be left to chance. At Pet Meadow, we offer true private cremation and welcome your client to attend the cremation of their pet.

Ensuring the Integrity of Every Cremation

We have the capability to offer private cremation for pets up to 600 lbs.
