The Rainbow Bridge

Just this side of heaven is a place called Rainbow Bridge.

When an animal dies that has been especially close to someone here, that pet goes to Rainbow Bridge. There are meadows and hills for all of our special friends so they can run and play together. There is plenty of food, water and sunshine, and our friends are warm and comfortable.

All the animals who had been ill and old are restored to health and vigor. Those who were hurt or maimed are made whole and strong again, just as we remember them in our dreams of days and times gone by. The animals are happy and content, except for one small thing; they each miss someone very special to them, who had to be left behind.

They all run and play together, but the day comes when one suddenly stops and looks into the distance. His bright eyes are intent. His eager body quivers. Suddenly he begins to run from the group, flying over the green grass, his legs carrying him faster and faster.

You have been spotted, and when you and your special friend finally meet, you cling together in joyous reunion, never to be parted again. The happy kisses rain upon your face; your hands again caress the beloved head, and you look once more into the trusting eyes of your pet, so long gone from your life but never absent from your heart.

Then you cross Rainbow Bridge together....

Saying goodbye to your beloved pet...

Pet Meadow knows that saying goodbye to a special family member can be overwhelming. Our certified pet bereavement counselors are there to sensitively support you and your pet through this difficult time. We understand your special and unique relationship with your pet and we personally work with you to create a way to best memorialize and honor your pet's life.

Our Mission

Pet Meadow is a family-owned, leading expert in providing a comprehensive, private and compassionate pet cremation and grief support service. For 25 years, we have been trusted by leading hospital and veterinarian practices to compassionately and reliably care for your pet's dignified passage.

Our Promise

We will treat you and your pet as we would our own family. Pet Meadow upholds the highest standards of the International Association of Pet Cemeteries and Crematories, the gold standard in professional standards and ethics in pet aftercare.

We're family owned and operated so we can provide more personal, custom care.

Pet Loss Support

APLB — The APLB provides resources for pet loss support, including online chat rooms facilitated by pet bereavement counselors. Visit www.APLB.org to find out more.

Pet Loss Partners — If you have experienced the loss of a beloved pet, and are struggling with the loss, call (732)301-4743 or visit PetLossPartners.com

What are your options?

Private Cremation

Each pet is privately cremated so that you receive back all of your pet and only your pet.

Your pet's cremains will be returned to you in our cherry wooden urn. If you prefer, a permanent urn can be selected from our website or by visiting the urn display at our facility.

Attended Cremation

Your presence at the time of cremation is welcome and can be scheduled by calling our office.

"The fact that we were able to see her one last time and witness her cremation, made this time a little more bearable. We know without a shadow of a doubt that the ashes we hold dear belong to our Gigi." – Tina & Justin

Communal Cremation

Your pet is cremated simultaneously with other pets. The remains are not returned, but are gently scattered at our memorial park.

Burial

- Formal burial of your pet is available including casket and granite marker. A deed restriction and maintenance fees ensure the continuation of the cemetery. Arrangements can be made by calling our office.
- Smaller plots are available to accommodate cremains and a granite marker. This provides a permanent resting place for your pet.

Transportation

We will gently transport your pet from your veterinarian's office or your home to our facility.

This body has been the faithful home of a beautiful spirit.
Whatever your choice for the care of you pet's body, it will be handled with respect and dignity befitting the one who lived there.

Memorialization Ideas

Capture Cherished Memories

- Chronicle your pet's life in a journal or create a photo album.
- Create a drawing, sculpture or needlework project or other art.

Make a Home Memorial

- Design a special home memorial space with your pet's picture and candle. Light the candle when you think of your pet.
- Plant a tree, bush, or garden in your pet's memory.

Create a Keepsake – Keep Your Pet Close

- Jewelry containing your pet's lock of hair or cremains.
- An ink paw print as a charm, necklace or bracelet.
- Ask your vet or crematory to make a clay or ink paw print of your pet
- Keep your pet's collar and tags – put tags on your key ring to always have your pet with you

Honor Your Pet

- Volunteer at a local animal shelter in memory of your pet.
- Attend our national Pet Memorial Day Candlelight Ceremony, always the 2nd Sunday in September.

Farewell master, yet not farewell.
Where I go, ye too, shall dwell.
I am gone before your face.
A moment's time, a little space.
When ye come where I have stepped,
ye will wonder why ye wept.

– Edwin Arnold

Tips for Coping with Pet Loss

Excerpts taken from "The 10 tips on coping with the loss of a pet" (full version available at petmeadow.com)

Why do I feel so much grief?

Intense grief over the loss of a pet is normal and natural. Your pet was a significant part of your life — a source of comfort and companionship, of unconditional love and acceptance, of fun and joy. People who don't understand the pet/owner bond may not understand your pain but millions of other pet owners have gone through the same feelings.

Different people experience grief in different ways. Besides your sorrow and loss, you may also experience guilt (even if it was illness or a simple accident that led to your loss), denial that your pet is really gone, anger at yourself or others who may have been involved in the loss, or even depression.

Be honest about your feelings. Someone you loved has died, and you feel alone and bereaved. Acknowledge your feelings first, then ask yourself whether the circumstances actually justify them. Locking away grief doesn't make it go away. Cry, scream, pound the floor, talk it out. Don't try to avoid grief by not thinking about your pet. Instead, reminisce about the good times.

What should I tell my children?

You are the best judge of how much information your children can handle about death and the loss of their pet. You may find that, by being honest with them about your pet's loss, you may be able to address some fears and misperceptions they have about death. If you say the pet was "put to sleep," make sure your children understand the difference between death and ordinary sleep. Never say the pet "went away," or your child may wonder what he or she did to make it leave, and wait in anguish for its return. That also makes it harder for a child to accept a new pet. Make it clear that the pet will not come back, but that it is happy and free of pain.

Never assume a child is too young or too old to grieve. Never criticize a child for tears, or tell them to "be strong" or not to feel sad. Be honest about your own sorrow. Don't try to hide it, or children may feel required to hide their grief as well.

Will my other pets grieve?

Pets observe every change in a household, often form strong attachments to one another and are bound to notice the absence of a companion. You may need to give your surviving pets a lot of extra attention and love to help them through this period. Remember that, if you are going to introduce a new pet, your surviving pets may not accept the newcomer right away, but new bonds will grow in time.

Should I get a new pet right away?

Generally, the answer is no. One needs time to work through grief and loss before building a relationship with a new pet. If your emotions are still in turmoil, you may resent a new pet for trying to "take the place" of the old. Children in particular may feel that loving a new pet is "disloyal" to the previous pet.

When you do get a new pet, avoid getting a "look-alike" pet, which makes comparisons all the more likely. Don't expect your new pet to be "just like" the one you lost. Never give a new pet the same name or nickname as the old, and allow it to develop its own personality.

A new pet should be acquired because you are ready to move forward and build a new relationship, rather than looking backward and mourning your loss. When you are ready, select an animal with whom you can build another long, loving relationship because this is what having a pet is all about!
